Edmonton, AB – Ladies Learning Code, the Toronto-based collective of women focused on “empowering everyone to feel comfortable learning basic, beginner-friendly technical skills in a social, collaborative way” began hosting the first of a series of workshops in Edmonton on July 6, 2013. On August 17, 2013 LLC will host their second workshop in the city by featuring Intro to JavaScript.

Local web design and development firm BE3Designs is the workshop and community sponsor for LLC. Ladies Learning Code workshops aim for a 4:1 student-to-instructor ratio and enough members of the Edmonton digital community will be volunteering to mentor 40+ students in a casual and supportive learning environment.

The Intro to JavaScript workshop is designed for beginners who have never been exposed to JavaScript before, but already have a very basic knowledge of HTML and CSS (Take the quiz here to see if you have the basic HTML/CSS you’ll need to get the most out of this workshop). JavaScript is a programming language that helps make a web page or other element(s) interactive. When you view a slideshow, see a pop-up ad, see a Facebook Timeline update, or a Google autocomplete a search term – that’s JavaScript! Students do not need any previous programming experience or knowledge, and will only be required to bring a laptop with WiFi (and power cord). Lunch for the workshop is provided.

About Ladies Learning Code

Ladies Learning Code is a collective of women working to empower everyone to feel comfortable learning basic, beginner-friendly technical skills in a social, collaborative way. Starting with a single tweet by Heather Payne in June of 2011, the organization has already reached thousands of women and is growing at a phenomenal pace with nine workshops scheduled across the country in June of this year alone. For more information, please visit <http://ladieslearningcode.com> or join Edmonton's Chapter community of mentors and learners at <http://www.facebook.com/ladieslearningcodeedmonton>
